CONSEQUENCES

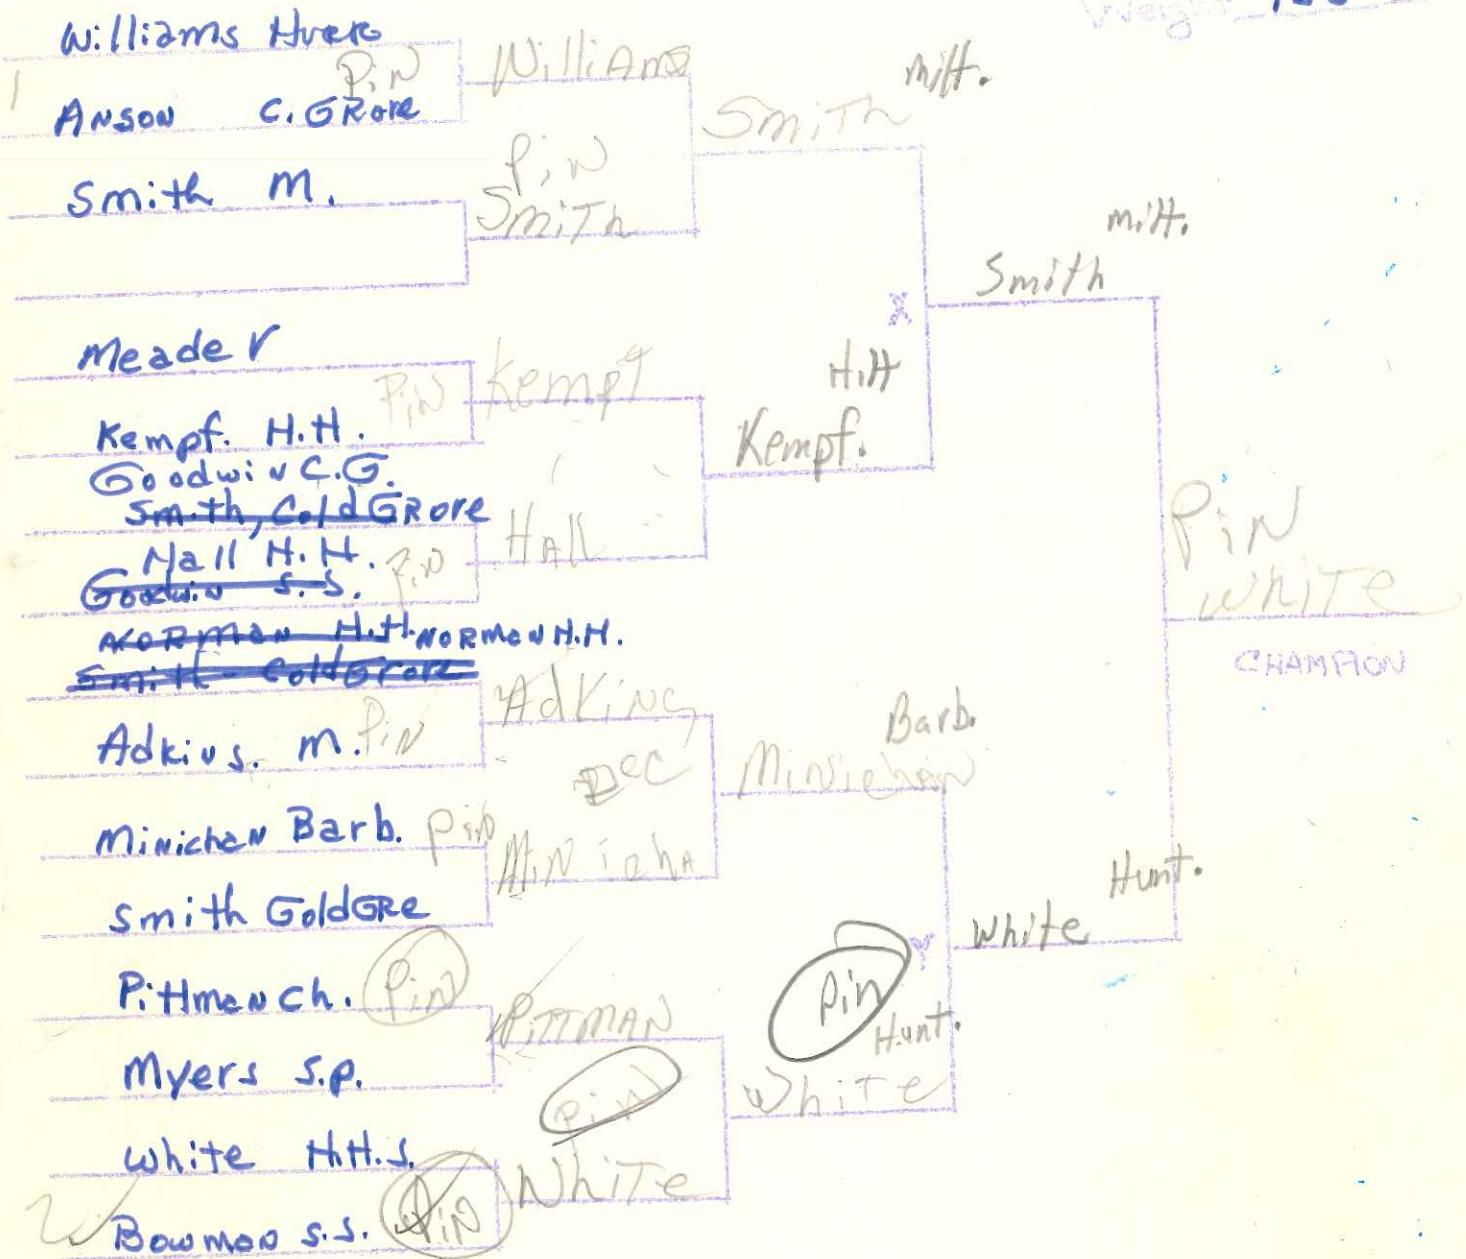

A hand-drawn map of the United States showing the paths of two hurricanes. The map features several state and city labels.

Hurricane Mitch: Labeled "Hurricane Mitch" at the top. The path is shown as a dashed line starting in Central America, crossing the Pacific Ocean, and then moving through the Gulf of California, across the southwestern United States, and into the Great Lakes region. Key locations labeled along the path include "Dec. 1" (inside a circle), "Moant Barb.", "Mount Barb.", "Loasay", and "Tahoe".

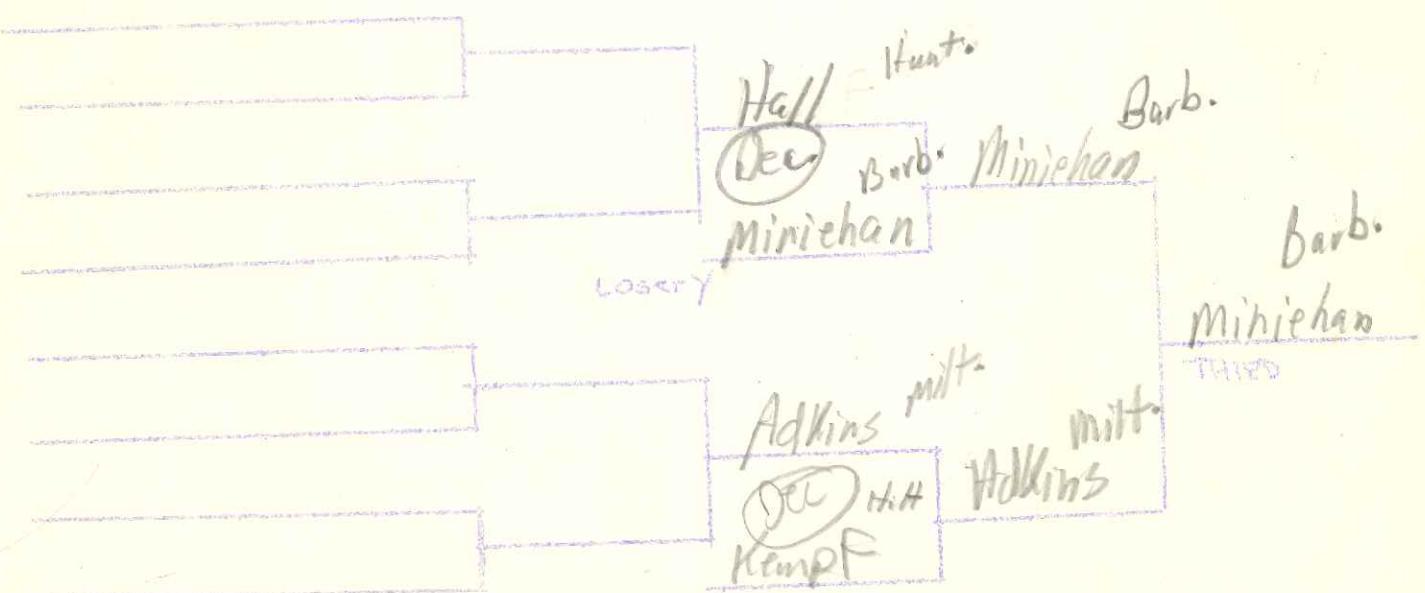

Hurricane膏: Labeled "Hurricane膏" at the bottom. The path is shown as a dashed line starting in the Gulf of Mexico, moving up the eastern coast of the United States, and then turning inland through the Great Lakes region. Key locations labeled along the path include "Dec. 1" (inside a circle), "Mount Barb.", "Mount", "Tahoe", "Sawyer", "Charleston", "Gulf S.", "S. S.", and "Grose".

Other Labels: "Lessay" is labeled near the bottom left, and "Lessay N." is labeled near the bottom center.
